What's New in the Family Movies?

The Family Movies set consists of the following icons: Desktop Shortcut One of the icons that you will be most likely to use on your computer screen is the desktop shortcut. It's the graphical representation of an item that enables you to quickly open up certain applications on your desktop. Icon This icon is the default icon that represents the folder, and when you click on it, the default action will be to view the contents of the folder. Word 2007 To Office 2010 Icon This icon is the default icon that represents the word document. When you click on it, the default action will be to open the word document in the default word processor. Nexus Devices Icon The Nexus Devices icon is the default icon that represents the icons for Google Android device. Links icon This icon is the default icon that represents the link. Clicking on this icon will open up the folder in the default web browser. The following image is a screenshot of how the icons are displayed on my computer screen All the icons in the Family Movies set are set in the transparent, as you can see from the image below, to make it easier for you to replace them with your own images. There are two variations of each icon, and they can be used either as a transparent or as a glossy version. For the transparent icons you have to replace all the PNG and ICO files in the set, while the glossy icons can be replaced using only the ICO files. In this tutorial we will show you how to replace only the ICO files and not the PNG files to get the glossy icons. Once you are done replacing the files, simply drag and drop the icons you've created on to your desktop. You will notice that they will all be replaced with the newly created icons. Creating the Thumbnails You are now all set to replace the icons of the Family Movies set, but in order for you to create thumbnails for all the icons that you're replacing, you need to use the previously created icons. Open up the family movies icon set that we have just created, and go to the res/icons folder. Here you will find a folder named icons. Inside the icons folder you will find the folders such as default.png, gloss.png, and the other icons that you will use in this tutorial. Use the default.png folder, which contains the default icons, and copy all the icons that you would like to use in your thumbnail.png files. Paste all these icons in a separate folder in your hard drive, for example you can use C:\Users\YourName\Desktop\ Save all the files that you have just created to your hard drive. Open up the preview program, and you will
