The order of the keys that you want to trigger the command is important. KeyMACRO records the keyboard command without registering the Command key, so you need to define which key is to be used as the Command key. You can use the File menu in KeyMACRO to open files in the standard application associated with that file type. This is useful if you want to create a keyboard shortcut for an application that doesn't have a keyboard shortcut. Recording Macros KeyMACRO lets you create a record that you can later play back. A record consists of commands and a list of keystrokes. KeyMACRO uses brackets to indicate which command to run and which keystrokes to run the command with. You can save a record as a text file in plain text, with or without the brackets. KeyMACRO can also open files from a record and export the text directly to a file. You can use KeyMACRO to create a new record that you can later play back. You do this by choosing Tools » Recorder » New Record. You can add a keystroke to a command by choosing the appropriate field in the Keystroke Details box. To cancel the current record, choose Cancel Record. KeyMACRO can automatically record your actions when you select an option in the File menu. This 77a5ca646e
